

Course Completion and Program Continuation

Students who fall into any one of the following categories may not be permitted to proceed/continue in their teaching practicum following a coursework term.

Students who:

1. fail to complete and submit their coursework before the beginning of the ensuing practicum
2. fail a course in the BEd curriculum
3. are found to be unprofessional according to the School of Education Professional Conduct Manual and NSTU Code of Ethics

Failure in any two courses (including field placement courses) in the B.Ed. Program will result in dismissal from the program.[nbsp] This includes:

1. Failing a course once, repeating the course again and failing again
2. Failing a course once, repeating the course and passing, and failing another course;
3. Failing two different courses.[nbsp] There will be no opportunity to repeat the courses.
